Giancarlo advises on complex litigation before state courts and arbitral tribunals or in pre-litigation settings. Giancarlo has experience regarding party representation in high-volume, technical and mostly cross-border disputes and in enforcement proceedings. He focuses on contentious matters in the context of long-term contractual relationships – often relating to (renewable) energy, mechanical engineering and international trade.

Giancarlo has worked on numerous international litigation teams. Early on during his law studies, he started his specialization in dispute resolution. At law school, he was co-organizer of the Bucerius Law Journal Conference on International Investment Law & Arbitration and has successfully participated in various moot courts (Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot, ICC Mediation Competition, Frankfurt Investment Arbitration Moot Court). A particular interest of Giancarlo lies in efficiency and cost aspects of voluminous disputes, including third-party funding.
